MOTIVATION LETTER

The reason behind me applying for an internship in Italy is my desire to learn and experience new things.

Academically I would get invaluable experience at a real company, which not only hones my skills but also immensely helps me with my career.

Personally, I am huge fan of history - and Italy is an incredibly historically significant nation, which means that if accepted, I would have a golden opportunity to not only learn history but to also see and experience it! But my fascination with history aside, I'd get to meet and befriend new people, learn the culture and their ways - to see more of the world and come out of the experience with great lifelong memories.
